Visiting the Kansas Statehouse

The Kansas Statehouse has offices for representatives and senators on the ground floor through the fifth floor, though it can be difficult to find officials in their offices. The statehouse is always bustling with people on their way to committee meetings and other legislative obligations, so it is important to plan ahead when meeting with legislators. Keep these thoughts in mind when visiting the statehouse.

Schedule the Meeting – Set the time and topic you wish to discuss. Because of busy schedules, it is unlikely you can simply stop by for a meeting. When scheduling a time to meet, be sure to confirm that you are a constituent and why you will be in Topeka.

Prepare for the Meeting – Spend time considering one to two issues that are important. Understand your position and personalize it, preferably with a handout. Create notes, and prepare to explain why the topics should be important to your legislator using concrete examples. Anticipate questions, and be concise with your message.

Execute the Meeting – Stay focused on your purpose to remain on-point. If you receive a question and do not know the answer, say that you will find the information and provide it at a later time. After presenting your message, conclude with a clear request on the matter.
